

Engaging with the media

Engaging with the media is a great way to raise awareness about your project, spread messages about the issues, gather support from people in your community and encourage people to take action. This section contains two fact sheets you can download:

How to write a media release

This resource, Working with the Media: A commonsense guide for communities taking action to address drug-related issues, is a must-read for communities wanting to engage with the media!
