

Object to a liquor licence

If you strongly feel that the granting of a liquor licence will impact on your community, you can object to the application through the Office of Liquor and Gaming Regulation (OLGR). A community member can make an objection on the grounds that the liquor licence has:

caused undue offence, annoyance, disturbance or inconvenience to those who live or work within the area had undue offence, annoyance, disturbance or inconvenience to persons in, or travelling to or from, an existing or proposed place of public worship, hospital or school caused harm from alcohol abuse and misuse or associated violence had an adverse effect on the health or safety of members of the public an adverse effect on the amenity of the community.

OLGR has created a guide about objecting to a liquor licence in Queensland that is easy to download. The guide details how to object to a licence, where to lodge a complaint, and how a complaint is processed. For more information about ways to address issues of alcohol availability, have a look at the Cost and solutions section of this website.
